American Flags!

Uncle Sam orders every flag down from sunset until sunrise. There may be some sentiment mixed in—but the flags last longer. There is nothing more injurious to wool fabrics than the night air—that is why.

However, we make our flags of the very best quality Wool Bunting, and that is why they last longer than most makes—when you buy a bunting flag from us you patronize home industry. Our prices are again down to the old established prices 'befo' de war.'

Wednesday is Washington's Birthday and you will want to honor the Nation's Father as well as display the colors in honor of our recent victories in Manila.

A MURDER MYSTERY!

THE INQUEST IN THE HOPKINS CASE ENDED LAST NIGHT AFTER AN EXHAUSTIVE INVESTIGATION.

VERDICT OF THE JURY RENDERED

The Jury Could Not Fix the Responsibility For the Death. Mrs. Foltz and Mary Michulski Discharged From Custody by Justice Shoemaker After the Result Was Announced.

"James Hopkins came to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted by some person, or persons, not known to the jury." This is the verdict the coroner's jury rendered last night after an exhaustive inquiry to determine whether or not James Hopkins, the 16-year-old youth who was found mortally shot in the house of James Foltz, on East Lloyd street, last Sunday night, shot himself, as died by the hand of a murderer.

The verdict, unfortunately, throws about the case more mystery than shrouded it before the inquest was held. Before this official investigation there was a difference of opinion as to whether the case was one of suicide, or murder. Now there is but one question. Who was the murderer, or murderers?

The jury was composed of intelligent and representative men of the community, and none other could consistently arrive at any other verdict. The only point established by the testimony, based on the fact that Hopkins was shot and died from the wound, was that the two chief witnesses in the case, the only parties apparently who were at or near the shooting when it occurred, Mary Michulski and Mrs. Alice Foltz, were either mistaken, or swore falsely, as to certain facts. But none of these facts had any direct bearing upon the shooting.

There was no testimony to show that either Mary Michulski, or Mrs. Foltz, had struck or threatened the victim, James Hopkins. There was nothing to show that either could have any motive in shooting him. Hopkins was poor—practically penniless—therefore robbery could not have been the motive. There was no evidence to show that there had ever been a serious quarrel between Hopkins and Mrs. Michulski, or Mrs. Foltz, or anybody else who lived in, or frequented the house; and, therefore, no motive of revenge on that score came to light.

There was evidence of jealousy, but it showed that the jealousy existed on Hopkins' part, and he was not the assailant, but the victim.

There was evidence to show that, contrary to her sworn statement before the jury, Mary Michulski had carried a revolver. But the witness who thus branded her at the same time gave evidence strongly in favor of the girl, showing that she was a staunch friend and firm defender of the victim.

Yet there was a chain of circumstances developed by the inquest that convinced the jury that Hopkins did not commit suicide, but was murdered. Who perpetrated the crime time may tell. Unfortunately, for the present, the local criminal record for the past twelve months is headed by three cases of murder, with all the perpetrators at large—two known, but apparently at a safe distance from capture, and the other unknown, according to the inquest's report.

Mary Michulski and Mrs. Alice Foltz were taken before Justice Shoemaker after the verdict was announced last night, and dismissed from custody, there being no evidence upon which the Commonwealth could hold them.

When the HERALD went to press last evening the Hopkins inquest was still in progress and Policeman Michael G. Hurley was called. He repeated his story as told before Justice Shoemaker on Monday night, bearing upon his finding of the body and the position of the revolver on the victim's breast. Witness searched the Foltz house for weapons other than the revolver, but found none that could be connected with the case. The Foltz house he heard of before the shooting. It had a bad name.

Policeman William Metz was called and swore that he was in the house at the time the shooting of the two women were walking to and fro in the front room, crying. Mary was repeating over and over again "Alice, you know how I went to the door and I heard the shot, and I asked 'Jim, did Alice shoot at you?' and you says 'no' and then I looked and I said 'No, Alice, Jim has shot himself.' Witness said he did not inquire of the neighbors as to whether there had been noise of a quarrel in the house before the shooting.

John McCord, one of the boys called to go for a doctor, gave unimportant testimony. The Foltz house had a bad reputation. He heard people talk about men going there, but he never saw any only Mr. and Mrs. Foltz and Mary go there.

Jacob Perkins was next called. He was one of the parties called from the Becker house to go and get a doctor. He testified that Hopkins was lying on his back, with his arms stretched beside him, when a revolver was upon his breast. Mrs. Foltz and Mary said Hopkins shot himself.

Edward Kester called and told his story of the finding of the body in the Foltz house, as already stated in the published reports with the addition that Mary Michulski told him that she thought Hopkins shot himself because he was jealous of her because he had asked her to go to church and she refused to do so. Mary also told witness that Hopkins was lying upon the floor, and she was sitting beside him, she told Hopkins that there was a gentleman outside who wanted to see her; but she got up and went to the door, and as she opened it she saw Hopkins shot himself.

Policeman Martin Mullaly testified to going to the Foltz house and finding Hopkins lying upon the floor. He produced the revolver. Mrs. Foltz's husband came in while witness was at the house. The house was reported to witness by a neighbor, who complained of men rapping at his door in mistake for the Foltz house, but the neighbor would not swear out a warrant against the house. The complaint was that the Foltz place was a disorderly and hawdy house.

Dr. W. N. Stein testified that he was called to the Foltz house after the shooting. He found Hopkins lying upon the floor, unconscious and very weak. His pulse was beating 120 per minute. Beside the bullet hole he found a cut, the lower end of which was 2 of an inch from the entrance of the bullet. The lower end was about an inch and a quarter from the entrance of the bullet. The doctor also said the victim's left eye was very much blackened and swollen. The doctor also testified the black eye might have come from the shot, and also from the cut. This cut could not have come from the bullet, in his opinion. It was such a cut as might have been made by an edge tool. The victim could have inflicted the cut and then shot himself. A knife or razor might have inflicted the cut. The cut was bleeding when I got there.

Dr. J. G. Church testified that he performed an autopsy on the body of the deceased. He found a bullet wound and it was a little below the middle of the cut. The bullet wound was one and 11-16 of an inch deep. The calibre of the revolver was 38. The revolver was very close to the head, judging from the powder marks. The bullet took a very slight downward course. It was almost direct. It was found in the spheroid bone. The cut on the head might have been produced by placing the barrel of the revolver, in direct contact with the place of entrance, and the recoil of the weapon would tear upwards. He judged it was a right hand shot. "He cut could have been made with a sharp-edged tool."

"Doctor, in case of a person receiving a wound of that kind, what would be the immediate effect?"

"He would lose consciousness."

"Would he be able to perform any act?"

"No, sir, not consciously."

"Suppose there would be a case of suicide and a man should hold a revolver to his head and shoot, would he have power, or consciousness, or stimulation enough to place the revolver on his chest and throw his arms beside him?"

"I don't think so. Any movement would be spasmodic."

"Or to remove it from his chest?"

"No, sir."

Policeman Hurley was recalled to tell the position of the revolver on the chest. He said the handle was towards the left hand. Michael Izo was called and also testified that the handle of the revolver was towards the left hand of the victim. Witness testified that the Foltz house had a bad reputation. He first heard that about three, or four, weeks ago.

John Hopkins, a brother of the deceased, called. The deceased was 18 years old the 21st of last July. The deceased never carried a revolver to witness' knowledge but once, and then witness took it away from him. Witness identified the revolver shown by Mrs. Michulski as the revolver which she carried on her person. Witness heard his brother, the deceased, talk of Mary Michulski taking him to the theatre. Witness' mother knew deceased went with Mary occasionally and cautioned him against doing so. The deceased was temperate the last three months and kept good hours, except during the week before his death, when he came home late a couple of times. When that revolver was kept in the house it was empty. There never was a cartridge in the house. Don't know how he got the revolver. It was not locked up. He could not have carried it more than three weeks before his death.

George Smith, a boy, testified that he was one of the parties sent for a doctor.

Joseph Michulski, step-brother of Mary Michulski, was next called. He testified that his sister had been lying out with Mrs. Michulski since a week last Sunday. Mother in law, Mrs. Dora, his mother, My right name is Dora. I never knew the character of the Foltz house. He couldn't tell why his sister left home. She had never been ill treated there. She left home once to live out with her sister. He did not know of his sister staying out late.

James Foltz, husband of Mrs. Alice Foltz, told of his absence from the house at the time of the shooting. His wife told him that she was in the kitchen when the shot was fired.

Mrs. Foltz and Mary were taken out of the Council chamber while the witness was on the stand. The testimony was a repetition of his wife's and Mary's story, as already published, and as told by them to him. He also explained how the chairs in the house became broken, and said all were broken before the shooting, one in a house in which he previously lived. About a week ago Jimmy Hopkins and Jimmy Botson took out revolvers and were fooling with them until witness told them to put them away, or leave the house. The revolvers were put away. The only thing witness heard Hopkins and Mary talk about in regard to other boys was when Hopkins said the two boys he traveled with, Sam Morgan and James Botson, had gone to Chicago and he felt very lonesome—that he had nobody to go with. In the last two weeks Hopkins came to witness' house pretty often. Some weeks he would come every night and other weeks every other night. That was when he and Mary got to be pretty great friends. Mary was hired to clean the witness' house almost direct. It was such a cut as might have been made by an edge tool. The victim could have inflicted the cut and then shot himself. A knife or razor might have inflicted the cut. The cut was bleeding when I got there.

PYTHIANS DINE.

An Enjoyable Gathering at the Ferguson House Last Night.

Gen. Harrison Lodge No. 257, Knights of Pythias, last night held its annual banquet at the Ferguson House and it proved a very enjoyable affair. During the early part of the evening the lodge met in regular session, conferred the third rank on one applicant, elected two others, and received notice that four more applications would be filed at the meeting to be held next Tuesday night. After the meeting the members in attendance marched in a body to the hotel, where they were met by several more.

Miss Host T. H. Hutchinson had the spacious dining room of the hotel excellently prepared and fifty-two people took seats at the table. After an invocation by Rev. J. C. Greif, pastor of the First Baptist Church, the old church, who is a member of one of the lodges of the order at Plymouth, a supper excellently prepared and served, and consisting of oyster, soup, roast turkey, all vegetables in season, ice cream, cakes, fruits, nuts, coffee and other liquid refreshments was partaken heartily.

The banquet over, there was an adjournment to the parlor, where an impromptu entertainment was held, extending considerably past midnight. A feature was a talk on Pythianism by Rev. Moore. Addresses and recitations by Messrs Thomas Baird and Guy C. Greif, William R. M. Fry, of Pottsville, and piano solos by Prof. Evan L. Jones, of Wm. Penn, and Charles Smith, singing by William Metcalf, of Lost Creek, and Edward Tobin, and other events made the hours pass in a most enjoyable manner.

Fire Notes.

One newspaper reporter had the total loss at $60,000—a stretch of the imagination.

The Columbia Hose Company can be relied on in an emergency. Yesterday the water pressure was not adequate and the company's two steamers were brought into play, and practically saved a much greater loss of property. The same efficiency was noted on the part of all the companies.

There was some talk yesterday of raising a purse for the fire companies, as a token of their appreciation on the part of the people of the town.

The Journal says had not the firemen "outdone the fire under control" the loss would have been greater. The philosopher who punned those lines deserves a medal.

The Phoenix boys did good work in getting their hose through their building, thus saving the necessity of extra hose.

We have received a number of requests to make special mention of individual firemen who did good work yesterday, but this is not advisable and it would be utterly impossible to mention all. "There is glory enough" for all the firemen.

Mr. J. M. Kallbach and family desire to thank all who so kindly assisted them in the removal of their effects during yesterday's fire.

Chief Fire Marshal P. J. Reynolds, in an interview to-day, said that, after a careful investigation, he was satisfied that the fire on Main street yesterday was due to a flue on the Porty property.

Boys Arrested.

The throwing of snow balls by boys terminated in a law suit before Justice Shoemaker last evening. The boys arrested were James Wallis and George Aukelooki. The throwing took place on election day, when both boys hit Abraham Goldman at O'Hara's stable and assaulted Goldman by striking him on the right temple with a stone. The boys settled by paying the fine and costs.

POPE AGAIN STRICKEN!

It Is Feared That His Holiness Will Not Recover.

MALADY SAID TO BE PNEUMONIA.

Already There Is Talk of His Successor, and It Is Admitted That There Is No Possibility of a Foreigner Being Elected.

London, March 1.—A dispatch from Rome says that the pope has had a prolonged fainting fit. His holiness had a fatiguing day Monday, receiving congratulations on the approaching anniversary of his coronation, and complained of the cold, which has been intense for two days. Yesterday the pontiff complained of a pain in his side. Dr. Lippont found some fever and ordered the patient to remain in bed and take a complete rest. It is almost certain that the pontifical receptions and ceremonies fixed for March 2 and 3 will be postponed.

The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "It is feared the pope has pneumonia and will not recover. Cardinal Gregalia, doyen of the Sacred College, has been in the apartment of his holiness the entire evening."

The Rome correspondent of the Daily News says: "The sudden changes in the weather brought on the pope's bowed complaint, from which he has never been entirely free since last summer, when it was regarded as alarming. This is accompanied by a pain in the left side, near the spleen."

"Intrigues have already begun with regard to a possible conclave, and names of candidates are in circulation. The indications are that the conclave, should it be called soon, would be divided directly into two factions. The first is the simply religious faction, supporting Padre Gotti, a barefoot Carmelite monk from Genoa, distinguished merely for learning and piety, who would really have a good chance of success. The second faction, which favors an extension of the pontifical power of the pope, has three candidates, Cardinal Bishop Luigi Gregalia di Santo Stefano, dean of the Sacred college and camerlengo of the Holy Roman Catholic church; Cardinal Bishop Serafino Vannutelli, bishop of Frascati and prefect of the congregation of bishops and regulars; and Cardinal-Priest Mariano Rampolla del Tindaro, pontifical secretary of state, arch priest of the Vatican Basilica and grand prior in Rome of the sovereign military Order of St. John of Jerusalem. All of these are intrinsically good, and there is no possibility of a foreigner being elected pope."

His Holiness Better.

Special to EVENING HERALD.

Rome, March 1, 2 p. m.—His Holiness, the Pope, has undergone an operation for the removal from his thigh of a cyst, or sac containing morbid matter. The operation was successful and the condition of the Pope is much improved to-day.
